

Biography

Fabrice Teicher has been working for more than 20 years in the field of education, training and international solidarity. Historian by training, he has been working for 20 years on the issues of racism, anti-Semitism and discrimination and especially on conspiracy theories. Since 2015, he has been regularly involved in programs against violent extremism and media education, in France and abroad, in schools, prisons, as well as with professionals confronted with the rise of racism and extremism (teachers, civil servants, social workers, policy makers). Fabrice is an expert for the Radicalisation Awareness Network of the European Commission and an expert on the Prevention of Violent Extremism with UNESCO.
