

Workshop Summary

Main objective of this workshop is to sort out all the inspirations from online training program The Holocaust as a Starting Point and to prepare a draft of a learning activity to be developed later on. Teachers will be actively engaged and participate in preparations and development through discussions, group work and also by using the online tool Jamboard. We will follow a constructivist and critical pedagogy approach along with active learning and teaching. Teachers will choose a topic, select, analyze and propose potential materials and sources and then model the learning activity step by step around them. Together we will also propose and rethink potential creative reflection techniques and assessment options.
