During the Second World War, several states and occupation zones were established on the territory of occupied Yugoslavia. One of them were The Territory of the Military Commander in Serbia which included most of modern central Serbia, northern part of Kosovo and the Banat. At the beginning of September 1941, the German occupiers established the Government of National Salvation, headed by the pre-war General of the Army of the Kingdom of Yugoslavia, Milan Nedic. The aim is for the participants of the program is to become familiar with the activities of the Nedic government and its role in the Second World War.
