The Imaginary Jew: A History of anti-Jewish myths

In this workshop we will be exploring the different myths that have been created and recycled throughout history, until today, that serve as the basis of anti-Judaism and antisemitism. Participants will, in smaller groups, work on documents to better understand the origins of these myths and the contemporary manifestations of antisemitism.

“Dealing with racial prejudices in the classroom”

The goal of this workshop is to discuss different approaches to tackle racism in a classroom setting through the concept of prejudice. Where do racial prejudices come from and how can we efficiently approach them with students?
