Building up a common Learning Activity

The main objective of this workshop is to select one of the two suggested topics from the seminar The Holocaust as a Starting Point, and to prepare a draft of a learning activity to be developed later on. Teachers will be actively engaged and participate in the preparation of the learning activity through group work. They will choose a topic, select, analyse and propose potential materials and sources and then model the learning activity step-by-step around them. Together, they will also propose potential creative reflection techniques, and assessment options.
