

Biography: Fabrice Teicher

Fabrice Teicher has been working for 20 years in the field of education, training, and international solidarity. In charge of the training programs then of the international projects of a Scouting association, he was then deputy head of the educational department of the Holocaust Memorial in Paris, and later directed a humanitarian development NGO present in 12 countries, to help children in needs.

Historian by training, he has been working for 20 years on the issues of racism, anti-Semitism and especially on issues of memory and victim competitions and conspiracy theories. This work has led him to intervene for some years in the Prevention of Violent Extremism in prisons, in schools and with professionals facing the rise of racism and extremism (civil servants, teachers, social workers, policymakers) as well as with International Organizations (UNESCO, OSCE / ODIHR ...).

Fabrice Teicher is a member of the expert Pool of the Radicalization Awareness Network of the European Commission.