

Biography

Celeste Muñoz Martínez

*

Celeste Muñoz Martínez has a PhD from the University of Barcelona (2020), with a doctoral thesis entitled "the law against custom. Segregation, legal assimilation and punishment in Spanish Guinea under the Franco regime (1936-1959)". She is currently a part-time professor at the University Of Barcelona (UB) and the Universitat Oberta de Catalunya (UOC), where she teaches the subject of "history of Africa". She also collaborates with the European Observatory of Memories in different projects related to colonial memory. She is a member of the "Group of Studies on African Societies" and of the editorial board of the journal "Studia Africana". Her lines of research are colonial memory, legal pluralism and Franco's colonialism in Africa. She has numerous publications and has participated in different research projects.