

Biography: Juraj Varga

Juraj Varga is an educator working with teachers and trainees in Czechia and Slovakia mostly but also around Europe focusing on development of teaching materials and teacher training courses and programs.

He led development and piloting of teaching materials for Slovak part of the project The Experience of State Socialism Reimagined (2018-2020) coordinated by The Institute for the Study of Totalitarian Regimes. He also facilitated and organised workshops for history teachers for the Institute (2014-2019). Juraj is also one of the content developers for EuroClio's project Learning to Disagree (2017-2020), within which he is currently deploying national teacher training programs. He has been representative of the Slovak civil society organizations at Council of Europe's 4th Regional Seminar of the project Educating for Diversity and Democracy: teaching history in contemporary Europe.